THE RAPE FIEND CAUGHT.

Royal Burrell Held in $3000 for Assault on Florence Johnson.

The police did a very good piece of work in catching Royal Burrell, the young man who attempted to rape little Florence Johnson, George Johnson's fourteen-year-old daughter, Saturday afternoon. It was supposed that the girl's assailant was an Adams man but the officers gave it out that the criminal was supposed to be a tramp, giving him confidence to remain in town. The girl said she had often seen Burrell pass the Berkshire mill where she works with her father, and she kept a watch on everybody who went by. Finally she saw Burrell and told her father who took a good look at the fellow and going out told the police. Burrell was caught by Officer Hieser near the Adams Gas company's works and brought to the Spring street lockup. He had a hearing before Judge Harrington this morning and among other things that Burrell had a gun with which he tried to intimidate the Johnson girl. Chief Curran and Officer Hieser testified that Burrell had told immediately after his arrest that he had committed the crime. Burrell took the stand and told almost the same story told by the little girl.

The case is beyond the jurisdiction of a district court and Burrell was held for the grand jury in the sum of $3000. Being unable to procure bonds he was taken to jail.

Two young women in Herbert Briggs' carriage attempted to turn around on Park street Monday evening and crumpled the wheel too much. The horse made a quick plunge, overturning the carriage and throwing the women out. Neither of them was injured but the carriage lost a wheel and sustained other damages.

William Pettit of Savoy was in court Monday afternoon charged with threatening to kill his wife and family. He was placed under bonds of $100 to keep the peace and being unable to secure the amount was taken to Pittsfield jail for two months, by Sheriff O'Brien.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Charbonneau Monday.

A. D. Desrochers has been appointed local examiner of the Greenfield Life association.

The high school alumni met at Mrs. Kate Dean's Monday evening and elected the following officers for the year: President, Herbert Dean; vice president, Mrs. Bessie Wood; treasurer, Mrs. W. B. Dean; secretary, Miss Mad Bryant; executive committee, H. K. Viner, Miss Anna Fin, Mrs. Edie Donovan.

The society will meet at Academy hall Friday evening to arrange to aid in the graduation exercises. There was but about half of the members of the association or eighteen persons present last evening and the membership will be renewed and dues paid at the Friday evening meeting.

There was a meeting of the former trustees of the Baptist church Monday evening at E. G. Brown's. Matters were discussed that were foreign to the usual church business customs. No important matters were settled. It is thought the Rev. Mr. Harding will comply with the recommendations of the church council held here last spring. The time for Mr. Harding to go away from the parish fixed by the council was the first of August. Mr. Harding is at Boston and New Bedford for a few days.

WILLIAMSTOWN.

Village Improvement Society.
About seventy-five citizens met in the opera house Monday evening to organize a permanent society for Village Improvement. Dr. John Bascom was elected as president. The vice presidents were J. W. Bullock and Charles S. Cole; secretary, George B. Waterman; treasurer, A. E. Evans. A financial committee of four was elected: James W. Bullock, Miss Rose, Smith, Mrs. L. T. Saunders and N. H. Sabin. All the officers were chosen unanimously.

Considerable amusement was caused when, at the suggestion that a committee of three be chosen to nominate the officers, the chairman announced that a list had already been prepared. The object of the society which is to be called the Williamstown Village Improvement society, is to beautify the grounds and protect the trees and grass. One dollar or the planting and protecting of a tree under the direction of the executive committee constitutes a member. The society will depend upon contributions for its support. Ten dollars for three consecutive years or $5 in one amount constitutes a life member. The first annual meeting will be held the second Wednesday in July. Anyone giving a contribution is a member for the year the contribution is given.

Some Cases of Death.

In The Journal of the American Medical Association the following account of the death of Washington appears. In view of the fact that the general impression prevails that Washington died of quinsy, the paragraph is interesting.

"Washington at 67 years of age died of acute laryngitis complicated with edema of the glottis. On Dec. 12, 1895, he rode over his estate on horseback, and as it was a day of rain and sleet he became thoroughly chilled. He contracted a severe cold and at the end of two days was very sick. Before sending for a doctor he had his overcoat bleed him. When the doctor came he bled him again. As there was no improvement a consulting physician was called, and again he was bled. Finally they gave him tartar emetic and calomel. They also applied fire blisters to his throat. This medical treatment has been the subject of much criticism."

Ben Jonson had his mental faculties impaired by repeated attacks of apoplexy. His bodily health also was shattered, and he died in a state of the deepest depression and gloom. Benjamin Franklin died of cancer of the lungs. Napoleon died of cancer of the stomach. Burns, Shakespear and Edgar A. Poe died of exposure, the results of a cold drink. John Bunyan died of a cold caught by exposure. Smedley was drowned. Adams and Charles Wolf died of consumption.

St. Louis a Typical American City.

St. Louis, in more than one sense, must be accorded a central place in the series of great American towns. It is not only central by virtue of its geographical situation, but it is also more typically American than any other of our large communities by reason of the blending of the several American types of population. The process of assimilation has been more complete than in the northeastern towns, and distinctions of race and class are less sharply drawn in most eastern cities. St. Louis is comparatively an old community. It has succeeded fairly well in reducing New Englanders, Virginians, New Yorkers, men from the Gulf states, Kentuckians, northwesterners, Missourians, the Illinois contingent, the Texas, and the Irish and Germans well into a body of homogeneous yet conservative Americans, to which each element has contributed something, while losing the sharp edges of its own eccentricities. These results a community that is typically American and more completely representative of our whole country, such as it is, than any other one of the dozen or so American cities. It also happens that St. Louis is the most satisfactory example of what may be called the distinctive American system of city government, that the country affords, on any similar scale of magnitude.—Albert Shaw in Century.

It Seemed Strange.

A VISTA OF FASHION.

LATEST IN SUMMER BONNETS AND GOWNS.

Medium Sized Hats With Harmonious Coloring Preferred by Women of Taste—Noticeable Change in Outlines of Sleeve. Trimmed Skirts—Fancy Blouses.

A feature of the newest millinery is an increasing harmony of color. Flower hats are still the rage, and as the season advances the artificial ones imitate nature's blossoms by being seasonable as well as clever copies. Aigrets are large and come in all colors. Fan shaped ends of lace are arranged to give the effect of height. All hats are tilted well over the eyes, and even bonnets are worn well forward. This requires a careful arrangement of the hair at the back. Jeweled quills are very effective, and paradise plumes are gaining in popularity. Middle aged women wear low crowned, medium sized brims, in shades of green straw, trimmed with pink roses and an abundance of foliage. A pleasing bonnet for a matron is black, with rosettes formed of loops of the new satin straw. Lace edged lilies fans start from a handsome jet ornament, and the spray at the side is accompanied by two upstanding quills at the back.

The only very noticeable change in outline in the newest gowns is seen in the sleeves, which are beginning to follow the contour of the arms again. The return of the balayage and the rumor that the skirts of walking dresses are to be shortened are indications that the fullness is to be diminished at no distant day. Ruches of silk are now placed on the inside of the handsome street dresses, and evening gowns show ruffles of lace and chiffon, as a balayage, to keep the skirt out from the bottom.

White gowns are being much worn for informal as well as dress occasions, and these are properly accompanied by white hats, shoes and parasols.

Dress trimmings include embroideries of almost every description, and tricot heads play a conspicuous part in the mixture. Paillottes and jewels of some sort appear on almost everything—hats, bonnets, gowns and capes alike. Gorgeous buttons and fancy braids carry out the scheme of decoration still further.

The variety in bodice trimming is beyond any complete description, for new ideas and combinations are constantly appearing.

The newest skirts are, many of them, trimmed, some with flat bands of velvet, silk or lace. Ruches of all sorts are used for dress trimmings, and they are made of lace, net, chiffon or silk in various widths, to suit their purpose. Tiny ruches of silk or lace outline the skirt seams, and wider ruches trim the bottom, finish the sleeve epaulets and adorn many a little cape.

Silk gowns is a favorite dress material. So is figured silk, which this summer takes the place of china silk. There is an infinite variety of all sorts of little turnover collars and cuffs of linen batiste and lace.

Blouses and bodices are exceptionally attractive. Nothing could be more stylish than a smart blouse in heliotrope china silk, zouave shape, and trimmed with fine cream colored lace applique. The lace front was tucked and enhanced with an insertion of lace.

Equally attractive was a blouse in the new silver lawn, with bands of open applique work showing mauve satin underneath. There were a turnover collar and satin neckband and waistband.

A drossy fete or dinner bodice in pink crepe de chine had a pelerine of butter color lace made of insertion, run with newest and accepted styles. narrow ribbons and frills, finished with bows of pink satin. All these blouses and bodices illustrate the newest and most accepted styles, and they are likely to remain fashionable throughout the forthcoming season.

Menu For Wedding Breakfast.
A simple menu for a wedding breakfast is the following: Scalloped lobster in individual shells, chicken salad, rolled bread and butter, very carefully prepared tongue, chicken and lettuce sandwiches cut into pretty shapes, bread slices, ice cream and fancy cake, the wedding cake, hot tea, coffee, chocolate and iced lemonade.

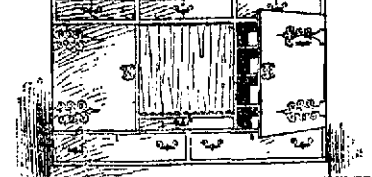

Tried and Found Good.
A writer in the New York Sun says: A "tried and found good" compound for destroying carpet bugs is made of one ounce of alum, one ounce of chloride of zinc and three ounces of salt. Mix with two ounces of water and let it stand overnight in a corked bottle, then pour it carefully into another vessel add two quarts of water to it, and with an old whisk broom sprinkle until quite damp around the edges of the carpet for a quarter of a yard in depth from the wall. This will not injure the colors of the carpet.

A PHOTOGRAPH CASE.

An Arrangement That Accommodates Both Camera and Pictures.

Since the advent of the kodak photographs have multiplied to such an extent that it has come to be a puzzle to know what to do with them. Albums are no longer to be considered as receptacles for any but old fashioned family photographs. Baskets are dust catchers, placid and linen cases are inadequate, so the photographs crowd the wall pockets, overflow the portfolios and are piled in the corners of the library and hall in stacks, which are always toppling over, to the disgust of the housemaid and the concern of the owner.

A cabinet illustrated in The Decorator and Furnisher has proved very satisfactory. It is 30 inches wide, 20 inches from top to bottom and 8 inches deep. It is found of ample size to contain the not insignificant collection of an amateur photographer, but might be made larger or in a set of several of one size to contain the possessions of an artist. The cabinet recess in the center accommodates the kodak. The shelves on either side are protected by doors, and the six drawers will receive prints, unmounted photographs and choice pictures of various sizes.

The authority already quoted gives a few hints for the formation of this treasure house. For the foundation get a grocer's box of the size you want. Select one which is free from loose knots and as well planned and neatly made as possible. The thin wood of an old tea chest will answer for the partitions and doors and has the advantage of being easy to work, while cigar boxes will do for drawers, if you find them of the right size.

Remove the labels from the cigar boxes and sandpaper away all roughnesses, fill the wood with some good filler, then varnish. A second sandpapering and varnishing will add to the beauty of the finish.

The handles for the drawers, the hinges and bars for the doors and the little brass rod for the curtain are comparatively inexpensive. A dollar would cover the outfit.

The Richest Spinster in America.
Miss Mary Garrett of Baltimore is the richest spinster in America. She is worth $15,000,000 and says she will never marry. Meeting her on the street, she dresses plainly and always in dark colors and is quiet and reserved in manner. She is now nearly 60 years of age. Her features are thin, her eyes are blue and keen, and her figure is slim. She is not very imposing in appearance or height, but after one comes to know her it is evident that she is no ordinary woman. She is so accustomed to business ways that she has acquired a man's decision, and her conversation is always direct. She is rather nervous and shows it in her manner and walk. She is likewise democratic and talks to the humblest stranger with the same freedom that she would to the first lady in the land. She has two homes, Montebello, in the country, and her town residence on Monument street, in Baltimore. Neither is very elegant or imposing in exterior. She is becoming more and more retired every year and now goes out very little in society. Her millions are invested in various forms, and possibly some of them do not bring her very much income, but it is quite sufficient for her modest wants. A. L. C.

IT'S ALL TALK.

Yes, But It's North Adams Talk, the Kind That Tells in North Adams.

Talk, that tells, Talk that's endorsed. Everyday talk by people that know. City talk—kidney talk. Do kidneys talk?

Well, yes, both loud and long. You should learn the kidney language. Back ache in kidney talk means kidney ache.

Lame back means lame kidneys. Weak back means weak kidneys. A bad back is simply The kidneys talking trouble. Here's North Adams talk and kidney talk.

Mrs. Geo. Fessenden 16-12 Arnold Place has great reason to be thankful for Doan's Kidney Pills and like everybody who has been emancipated from lingering torture she is only too pleased to give publicity to the fact. It is impossible that a shadow of suspicion can rest upon such testimony as Mrs. Fessenden's. The most fertile brain of an experienced impostor could not coin such expressions or conjure up such symptoms. Read this: "For the first time in 2 years I am able to stand at a table and knead a batch of pie crust without having to rest in a chair two or three times. Doan's Kidney Pills did that much for me. Five years I have suffered with my kidneys and severe inflammatory rheumatism. At one time my knees were nearly drawn up to my chin. I got partial relief for the rheumatism but nothing seemed to help my kidneys or remove the gnawing pain in the back. Or lessen the urinary trouble that compelled me to get up ten or twelve times a night. Often my back hurt so I could hardly get around. I could only stand on my feet for a short time owing to the bearing down sensation. I read different accounts in the papers about Doan's Kidney Pills curing kidney complaint and not a box at Burlington & Darby's drug store. For the first time I found something that helped my kidneys. The urinary trouble was cured. The backache disappeared and I can now sleep without disturbance at night. I have still traces of the rheumatism but to me the relief afforded for the other painful ailments—ailments that I had looked upon as incurable—is more than I can possibly express."

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box. Sent on receipt of price. Foster-Milburn Company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

A RIGHT START.

The Child is Lucky Who Gets the Proper Kind of One.

Not Wealth or Position Alone Means "Starting Right"—Health Counts for Something.

When a child is born to very wealthy parents, we are inclined to say, "what a start in life it has." If it is a girl, the father may give a bridal present of a million dollars. If a boy, the father may take him in partnership, and give him many millions.

But what does all this amount to if the family history shows that there is a marked tendency to the development of serious disease? What comfort, if one expects that every slight cold may terminate in consumption; or every nervous pain indicate approaching nervous prostration, or even insanity? Wealth cannot make happiness when pain is present, and the shadow of approaching disease always hovering near.

Happy is the child who inherits a sound constitution. He laughs at a little cold and does not mind a darning pain or two. But alas, many of us inherit a tendency to weak lungs, an inability to endure exposure, or some weakness of the nervous system. Yet, with a perfectly sound ancestry, we may still suffer from all these and other complaints.

It is a great gift to have a strong nervous system. Neuralgia, sciatica, nervous dyspepsia, inability to concentrate the mind, sleeplessness, and nervousness are symptoms of weak nerves. Opium and other narcotics, do not strengthen nerves; they weaken, debilitate. To be sure they may quiet a temporary pain, but the real cause, which is one of weakness, remains.

Weak nerves call for food and nerve tonics. The hypophosphites are generally acknowledged to be the best nerve tonics. The tonic tones up the whole nervous system, and every part of the body responds. Cod-liver oil supplies a valuable food to all the tissues; while the medicinal agents which naturally exist in this oil exert their good effects also. Scott's Emulsion is a combination of the best cod-liver oil and the purest hypophosphites. It is called an emulsion, because the oil is emulsified or digested. Hence it is more acceptable to invalids, and all those who do not have very strong digestive powers. One dose of Scott's Emulsion may not quiet pain, but one bottle will often so strengthen the nervous system that no pain will be present to quiet.

Nearly twenty-five years ago the proprietors of Scott's Emulsion discovered a process of emulsifying Cod-liver Oil, so as to remove from it almost entirely its obnoxious fishy taste and smell, and at the same time increasing its food and remedial properties. They found also that by combining the Hypophosphites with it that they added still further to its power.

Since that time thousands of imitations have come into the field, but the original has never been equalled.

How to Wash Windows.
The enterprising housewife of today washes her windows with water in which a little kerosene has been poured, and finds that she can polish them at once with her soft, lintless cloth. Or she dips a rag in alcohol and then in whiting. She rubs the glass with the mixture and polishes with chamois.
